System Performance Results

As you can see below we show you a performance sample of the system. The performance samples is based on the system rules to most accurately depict what you would be buying.

We look to trade between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Eastern time. That said you are not limited to that time at all. Trade whenever you want at a time that works best for your favorite Forex pair, at a decent momentum period so you can capture it that nice juicy momentum.

For trading 5 hours a day, 47.4 pips on a slow moving pair is quite good. If one can achieve this in their own trading then in order to make more money you would simple add more contracts over time as one's account grows.

But if you have a solid system that you can depend on then that's all you need to grow to a very large trading account that has the capacity to generate incredible cash flow!
